ARANUS INDUS ANTRAC

ANT PECULIARITIES.

ch Species Has a Distinct Odor

Each ant species appears to have its distinctive odor, discernible by other ants. Within each species there are also differences of odor dependent on the age of the colony and the age of the queen from whose egg its lumates are produced. The ant's organs of smell are its antennae, and the anten nae consist, as it were, of a series of noses, each of which has a special task. One nose tells the ant whether it is in its own nest or that of an enemy. Another nose discriminates between odor of ants of the same species, but of different colonies. The third serves the purpose of discerning the scent laid down by the ant's own feet, so that it may retrace its steps along its own path. Another rose smells the ant larvae and pupae, and the fifth nose detects the presence of an enemy. Thus if an aut be left with only the four noses it will live peaceably with alien ants, but while it has its fifth nose it will fight the allen to the death If ants make one another's acquaintance before they are twelve hours old they will thereafter live amicably to-gether, though of different species or subfamilies. But in three days after hatching their criterion of correct ant odor is established, and they refuse to affiliate with ants whose or in accord with their standard.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel hat every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. ength I was induced to try Electric Bit ers and the result was miraculous. mproved at once and now I am co pletely recovered." Mark Twain's Luck.

Mark Twain at one time in his early career was a characteristically impe cunious reporter. One day he had t note to meet, but labored under a total lack of funds. Half distracted, he was rushing around San Francisco in feverish hunt for enough cash to tide him over the trying time. He rushed a little too quickly, however, for as he was turning a corner he collided with a little man and overthrew him. The vic tim regained his feet and yelled, "You do that again and I'll knock you into the middle of next week." "My dear sir," said the apologetic humorist, "de it by all means. If I can get through till then without breaking I'm safe. The originality of this reply struck the stranger, who, after some talk, hand-ed Mark a check for the necessary amount.-Chicago Chronicle.

Made of Bamboo.

In a house where I visited recently I aw all sorts of useful things made from bamboo-supports for small ta bles, footstools, bookenses and curtain poles. Sometimes the bamboo was split. Then it made a neat finish to cretonne covered boxes or where a bit of colored matting had been transformed into a durable splasher or back ing to a corner seat. The mistress of the pretty little house, who is an adept with hammer and nalls, told me that bit of bamboo came from the handle of a discarded broom. "A bam-boo handled broom," she explained, "is so light and easy to use; besides, it costs no more than a heavier one. Then when the broom is worn out I have always a baudie I can make into some hing or other."- Good Housekeeping.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablet Better Than a Doctor's Prescription

Mrs. J. W. Turner, of Truhart, Va. says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than any thing he could get from a doc tor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be ued in perparing this one medicine. Music as an Ald to Ideas.

At evening parties a man's shyness mitigated by music. In my own ex perience, when some stray umn and have stood together speechless, no sooner did the plane break into our appalling silence than ideas seemed to inundate us. The dumb man spoke a if by magic, and I, who hitherto had nothing to say, couldn't talk! fast enough.-Mrs. John Lane in Fortnightly Review

London Built on Sponges

One could surely find no worse ground to build upon than a bed of sponges such as we use for the bath. And yet London has for its subsoll only sponges, although we call them flints. Once they grew as sponges do now in salt water shallows, and they are found in layers petrified among the chaik of southern England. The Thames valley chalk has been melted like so much sugar and carried away with the running waters, but the flints bave been left behind, and on these the whole city of London has found Its excellent foundations Triumphs of Modern Surgery. Wonderful things are done for the hu man body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sectionse of veins, antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by Stone & Mercer.
